Housing pathway map | Brighton and Hove

This map shows the housing pathway across Brighton and Hove. It demonstrates the main housing pathway and challenges.

This map does not visualise all of the instances where someone starts to re-experience homelessness - that can happen at anytime throughout this pathway.

Why we created this map

In our work we are concerned that from the point people experience a housing crisis the physical, mental and emotional health is affected. They can become ill or existing health issues can become worse.

Issues can become who exercises the second s

To do this we created a map of the housing pathway which is a path people take and How if they experience a housing crisis and manage to make contact with se can help them.

This is a pathway. It is not a journey. People's journeys are much harder and more distressing to hear about than what we have shown here. Because our work is trau informed we do not share these stories.

What we know from lived experience and from listening to people with experience of homelessness is that becoming lost or stuck at different points on this pathway causes harm and distress that can leave people with lifelong disabilities and health conditions

We made this map together so we can describe people's experiences of the housing pathway is Brighton and Hove.

We made it so we can explain exactly when, where and how people experience ba difficulty and stigma so that we can work with people in our city to create change.

We hope the charges we bring will stop some of the suffering people experience whe takes a difficult turn and they experience the distress of no longer having a home.

How to use this map? This map can help services, systems and people to understan what the current housing pathway is like and where the core challenges are.

This pathways map is focused on the journey of someone is single and over 18, the pathways for families and young people might be different.

Now did was this map created? This map is based on insights from the Common Ambition lived experience steering group and support workers.

This map is ever changing, we would leve your input! This is an ongoing collaborative map, we would really apprecial further input to help build this out further. If you would like to go touch please contact Nicky Pyper at Nicky payperights.net.
